

Each of us has enough DNA in our bodies that could stretch up to ten billion miles when uncoiled. That's about 35,000 bytes of data, which is about 35 million hours of high definition video. So what information would this hold? The blueprint for life, how to create it, how your body functions, what grows, how it reproduces, our thoughts and memories, just begin with some of those.

Also important to know is DNA is similar to a computer code or binary code, so if you are familiar with those, which takes a small change in the pattern or code, and will have a very grand effect, so you can insert a gene into the genome, so you can put something extra, or you can take something out so that it is missing one, you can translocate, meaning you take one part of the genome and put it into another area and flip flop them, or you can another synthetic or from another organism a genome and cut out part of the genome of the human and insert that other genome in there.

When you are doing this you are rewriting your genetic code, you are writing your software program, and how much change of that code would it take to be considered not human? Is that ethical or legal, whether or not we know what's going on. These are very important things to discuss because they are trying to roll out this technology within this year.

This is also considered to be an engineered cell line, or synthetic cell line, or genetically modified cell line – those are all different words that might be used, you have to understand the lingo because it can be confusing what someone is trying to talk about.

An interesting point is that we cannot patent anything natural or from nature, but we can patent something that has been created, modified, or engineered. A good example is Monsanto. It can genetically modify the seeds; therefore it has created something a little different. You may see the corn or tomato or whatever is in the grocery store that looks the same as a wild type, but it's not. They changed something, so on the outside it looks the same but on the inside its not. So therefore they control and own those seeds. Now, if it's a wild type, one that grows in nature, they cannot patent that, they cannot own that.

So, transpose that onto a human cell line, or a human, that could potentially mean that we could be patented, or human cell lines could be patented. If it's patented, it has to have owners, so I think you see where I am going with this.

What if our DNA is modified with genes from another species? Are we still human? Is this transhumanism? And then what if our DNA our genome is modified and thus can be patented and owned. This is not a sci-fi movie or future event – this is right now, today. This is called recombinant DNA and recombinant RNA technology, and this is what is proposed for Covid-19 vaccine.

The coronavirus Covid-19 vaccines are designed to make us into genetically modified organisms. That is the same lingo and terminology used for Monsanto seeds. So the front-runners for this recombinant DNA technology are Inovio Pharmaceuticals, backed by the Gates Foundation, GlaxoSmithKline and Sanofi Pharmaceuticals. Also, Moderna is in there too, which is also a Gates backed foundation. I will add that this type of DNA vaccine has never been used on humans before. Let me repeat that. Please understand, this has never ever been used on humans before. Never. They are now proposing to take something we have never used and to inject it into everyone.

Vaccine trials are being fast tracked at a level, at a rate I have never seen in my life, nor did I ever expect to see this. They are skipping over the animal trials going directly to human trials. They are not using good scientific methodology at all. They have no randomized placebo-controlled trials for any vaccine, which is the gold standard for any therapy to be approved by the FDA (Food and Drug Administration). They are not following any sound scientific protocol to make sure this is safe for us, to make sure this would even work for us, to know anything about it, and they want to inject it into everybody.

The vaccine manufacturers, in general, are actually exempt from product liability, meaning if it causes seizures, paralysis etc, they don't (as a group) are liable. They are also exempted from randomized controlled trials. They are doing this with the Covid-19 vaccine, but they are also doing this with other vaccines recently, where they can just say, well we've had the MMR vaccine before, we don't need to do that, you may have (inaudible) a little bit, it's still the same thing. I can't believe the mindset in that because just a little change can make a big difference. Also, they are exempted from needing evidence to prove that these things will do what they say they will do, so for instance, they just have to prove that the vaccine is producing antibodies. Just because you have antibodies does not make you immune to something. We don't know that for a fact, we don't know if it really would work out in the population of people. A real study would show that it works in the population of people. They are not doing that. They say they don't have time. So, it may not work at all.

Let's ask ourselves, what is the purpose then? Another important fact to know about all vaccines is that many of them are using the MRC5 aborted fetal cell lines from the 1960s. This is an immortalized cell line, immortalized means it does not die. In other words, it is a cell that has lost the ability to go through apoptosis and a cell that cannot go through that death process is called cancer. That is the definition of cancer. They are trying to use a lot of words for you not to realise that they are using a cancerous cell. Another term for aborted fetal cells are deployed cells and they have other terms for, but they are giving you the mains ones if you look at the list of ingredients. Some of the vaccines that are using these cancerous cell line are MMR (measles, mumps, rubella), chickenpox, shingles, hepatitis A and B, polio vax, and others.

I just want to put this point in because people always tell me is what you are saying is fantastical, there is no way this is going on, I trust our Governments, I trust our companies, I trust Bill Gates, you're saying false information. I just want to tell you that many many physicians and researchers have tried to get this information to the public for many years and have been silenced one way or the other. Many of my colleagues have tried to do that. I know I have tried my best. We have tried to bring this to the public. When there is money behind it, it doesn't work. The media is controlled. So this is why you don't see healthcare professionals and researchers speak up more. You see some still, but you don't see the group of us, because we don't feel that we have freedom of speech.

I just wanted to tell you in an Italian report, backed by the Government of Italy and a group of scientists called Corvella, gave his conclusions about some of the vaccines I just mentioned. They are a group of scientists state that these vaccines have the potential to increase oncogenesis, meaning increased risk of cancers, increased risk of mutagenesis or muted genes – what that would exactly mean I don't know either. Increased risk of transmitted live infection. Well this has been well known, a lot of times when you have a bacteria that is a contaminant or a micro plasma pneumonia is a very common bacteria as a contaminant. This really has nothing to do, supposedly, with the vaccine itself, but they are in there so you are getting an infection on top of the vaccine.

Telling you just this part, this could be considered, or the potential to be used as a bioweapon, they are injecting cancers into your body along with very toxic substances like mercury derivatives, aluminium derivatives and other things like that in addition to the unknown effect of the combination and accumulation of these vaccines together and the synergistic effect that happens. For instance, if you have one vaccine with a known amount of side effects and another one with its known amount of side effects, you put them together in a human (inaudible) within some time of a timeframe, it's not just A plus B equals A and B. The two together can have a synergistic effect and a hundred times more detrimental side effects than just what you would imagine. So, we don't know this, there haven't been any studies done on us. The paediatric population is definitely the most susceptible due to their immaturity of their immune systems, which would be common sense.

So let's go back to the topic of why the vaccines are being pushed so heavily on us, if the current research and evidence for using them is flawed. So, let's follow the money and that usually will give you some better ideas.

In 2011, the German company, CureVac was given $33 million for their research and development of RNA vaccines.

Then in 2013, Moderna Therapeutics was given $25 million for their research and development of RNA vaccines.

Then in 2015, Inovio was given $45 million for their DNA vaccines, which they also mention admitting to using DNA nano technology. Nano technology is using microscopic or very tiny little robotic organisms.

All of these companies are backed by the Gates Foundation, or have been associated with the Gates Foundation, in some way. It is important to know that, so far, these companies have been unable to get these products licensed for human use due to the fact that these vaccines have failed to provide sufficient immunity in human trials. Sufficient immunity is, again, only stating that you have a certain amount of antibodies. This again is not showing that the person is completely immune out in the public to whatever virus or bacteria they are trying to protect you from. It's only looking in vitro, in a test tube, how many antibodies. This is not good science yet to prove the efficacy of these vaccines, even if they could get this.

In 2010, DARPA, which is the Pentagon's Defence Advanced Research Projects Agency, military agency, started focusing on DNA and RNA vaccines, and they had a synthetic DNA vaccine that could be delivered via non-invasive electroporation, which is using a sticker with micro needles in it on your skin, you can barely feel it go in there. In their words "it is to enhance and subvert" humans at a genetic level. This is around the same year Bill Gates heavily started to fund the DNA RNA vaccines with the companies mentioned before.

In 2012, DARPA acknowledges a brain machine interface, that is AI artificial intelligence and the human brain will form a neural network and therefore have the ability to communicate by thought alone or being influenced, or controlled remotely. So this is the idea, you go into your smart home thinking about turning on the air conditioner, the fan, your favourite programme, have the stove start cooking something, and it happens because its Wi-fi. That sounds cool right, but think about that. If it's going one way it's coming back another way, what if the smart home can give you messages too. This all ties in together so bear with me.

Another DARPA programme around that time is next-gen non-surgical nano-technology N3 programme, and it involves non-invasive or minimally invasive brain computer interfaces to read and write directly onto your brain. Do you understand what this means? It is blowing my mind even still, even though I have known about this for a while. They are rewriting what is happening in your brain, your memories, your thoughts. Now people think this is exciting, it is the matrix, it is literally the matrix, I want to learn karate, download it I know karate, your body would know how to do it. I want to learn how to be a French cuisine chef. Download it instantly, I can learn a language probably within days, or one day, I don't know. That part sounds cool. You think you can control this? Something else is controlling you, something else is rewriting your emotions, your experiences, you may have artificial memories of things, you don't know what is reality. You have become a computer programme; you have become a character in a computer programme that you do not control.

This is not sci-fi, this is today. This all ties in. DARPA also funded another company that produces soft flexible hydrogels. I've mentioned hydrogels in the past, injected beneath the skin to perform health monitoring. Important you hear this. They sync to a smart phone app to give immediate health insights. However, hydrogel nano-technology grows and spreads in the body, once implanted. We do not know how this affects our DNA. We know that it can send information directly and continuously to an artificial intelligence.

So, all of us with a smart phone, mine included, we have health apps. One way or the other its in your phone, sometimes you have to look under a Google app it's there. You can disable it, but you can't erase it. It's impossible. This is the Covid-19 apps they are putting in too, it has to do with this. They are getting you set up, you have the apps, you have the software, now all you need is this little hydrogel (she pointed to hand), and then forever, everything in your body is monitored. For a woman, your ovulation, when you menstruate, how many times you have had sex, and for a man how many times you have had sex. How much alcohol content is in your body, all the vitamins and minerals, if you have fallen down, how many steps you are taking, if you are anxious, your emotions, your sleep, they know everything about you, and it is going continually to an AI programme, what is that doing?

That is something they are trying to do very fast, they are already getting you set up on your smart phone. This is not fantasy this is real.

In conclusion, we are entering into uncharted territory that can change what it means to be human. The vaccines for Covid-19 are not safe, by any scientific methodology. They are introducing cancerous and mutagenic cell lines into our bodies, and have been for a long time. They are introducing toxins into our bodies. This has been going on for a long time. Introducing different animal genomes into our bodies. This has been going on for a long time. They do not have proof that what they do, what they say they were going to do, will happen. There is absolutely no proof yet. They don't have to have the proof. The recombinant RNA, recombinant DNA technology will cause permanent and unknown genetic changes in a person's body. Once their DNA is changed, he or she will live with that change for the rest of their lives. Also, the ripple effects from that change, who knows what they could be, for the rest of his or her life. There is no going back. It's not like, oh I got that vaccine it didn't work, I won't do it again. No, its do or die with this. I don't know, and I don't think they, whoever is trying to market this really knows the ultimate outcome. It doesn't sound good.

Essentially, this creates a new species, and perhaps destroys an old one. Us. Us as humans as we know. It is also introducing nano-technology and its robotic technology into the body. This is all suggesting the ability to use this vaccine and its ancillary products, the things I mentioned just now, some of the names like ID2020 etc, to hook us all up to an artificial intelligence interface. This is not a one way street, this is two way street.

I know it is a lot of information to digest, and it scares me. It has scared me for years. I've been to scientific meetings where they have talked about this. I've been to business meetings where they talk about this. This is real it is not fantasy. I've studied this since I was in my early twenties, and it's real. We have to speak up about this now, for us, for our families, for our future generations, for the human race. This is no joke, guys. Please do your own research as much as you can, and start talking and talking, and don't stop the social media. Stay on all of it, and you start flooding the social media with this.

According to WebMD, the Covid-19 vaccine contains recombinant RNA technology. <https://www.webmd.com/lung/news/20200610/covid-19-latest-updates>

The FDA also said it could issue an emergency use authorization (EUA) for a COVID-19 vaccine, but that would be decided on a case-by-case basis after considering all the evidence on the vaccine's safety and effectiveness.

Here are some that are furthest along, with details on how the vaccine works.

Moderna. In July, Moderna announced that every person who received its vaccine, mRNA-1273, developed an immune response to the virus. Researchers also reported some side effects in the 45 people in the phase I study, but no significant safety issues.

Moderna's vaccine uses messenger RNA, also called mRNA. It carries the instruction for making the spike protein, a key protein on the surface of the virus that allows it to enter cells when a person is infected. After it's injected, it goes to the immune cells and instructs them to make copies of the spike protein, acting as if the cells have been infected with the actual coronavirus. This allows other immune cells to develop immunity.

The company is already testing the vaccine in a larger group of people, known as a phase II trial. It plans to begin phase III trials in late July. Phase III trials involve testing the vaccine on an even larger group and are the final step before FDA approval.
